

Crucifix Lane, Annie finds herself propelled 11 years into the future and caught up with a group of people, led by the charismatic Kellen, who are helping the disadvantaged. On returning to 1997, Annie knows that London's future is in her hands. Thrillers

John J Nance
Saving Cascadia

A few hundred years ago, Cascadia Island didn't even exist. Like the Washington sea-coast, it was rock submerged beneath the Pacific. A massive earthquake changed that, exploding the rock upwards, making it land—unstable land, according to seismologist Dr. Doug Lam. Thrillers

Kim Stanley Robinson
Antarctica

Like the icecaps it protects, the Antarctic treaty is dissolving. The world's last unstripped asset, Antarctica is in danger of becoming a free-for-all. A new radical environmentalist group who embark on a devastating course of 'ecotage', destroying oil camps and cutting communications to show humanity that Antarctica cannot be plundered like the rest of the world. Sci-fi

See also by Kim Stanley Robinson
Forty signs of rain.
Fifty degrees below
Sixty days and counting
Thrillers

Frank Schatzing

The swarm
From the moment an enormous unidentifiable form flashes across the radar of two North Sea scientists, it is clear they are being caused by a natural force more complex and more devastating than anything science is able to comprehend. Thrillers

Norman Spinrad

Greenhouse summer
About 100 years from now the world is in terrible trouble. Pollution, overpopulation, and ecological disasters have left the rich nations still rich, but less so, and the poor nations slowly strangle in drought and pollution. But maybe it is all coming to an end: a scientist has predicted Condition Venus, the sudden greenhouse downfall of the entire planet. Sci-fi

Whitley Strieber

The day after tomorrow
The planet is warming up and as the ice caps melt, the great currents of the oceans shift and the Northern hemisphere is plunged into a new ice age. One scientist has the key to turning back the clock of global warming. Sci-fi paperbacks

July 2007

Ecological/ Environmental Thrillers

Paul Adam

Genesis II

Virologist Karl Housman realizes that a new strain of flu has the potential to kill more than the 1918 epidemic, but no one will take him seriously. When he pools resources with the defence solicitor of an eco-terrorist, they discover a government funded cover-up which they must expose. Thrillers

J G Ballard

First published in 1962.

The drowned world

Fluctuations in solar radiation have caused the icecaps to melt and the seas to rise.

London has been transformed into a primeval swamp, and within its submerged landscape giant lizards, dragonflies and insects compete for dominance. Sci-fi

Windsor Chorlton

Cold fusion

In a remote Oregon biotech facility John Cope emerges from a coma. His identity lost, his memory vanished, he discovers that the world has been plunged into a permanent winter triggered by a meteorite impact. Most of the Earth's temperate zones have been reduced to semi-arctic wastelands. Thriller paperbacks

Richard Doyle

Flood

A storm rages over the north of Britain. A troop carrier founders in the Irish Sea; flood indicators go off the scale, the seas are mountainous and a spring tide is about to strike the East Coast. When the storm reaches the south the two forces of wind and tide will combine and send a huge one-in-a-thousand tidal surge up the Thames. Thrillers

Ken Follett

The hammer of Eden

The governor of California has received a terrorist threat. If the demands are not met, the group will trigger an earthquake in four weeks' time. An FBI expert warns that the individual behind this threat is sane, capable and serious. If he says he can trigger an earthquake, he will. Thrillers

Ray Hammond

Extinction

In 2066, the Earth's overheated ecosphere is running out of control. The seas are rising, the crops are failing, humanity is dying. The weather control satellites of the ERGIA Corporation are keeping the planet from total meltdown, but only just—and only for those countries that can pay.

Sci-fi

John Hockenberry

A river out of Eden

Francine Smoholla occupies a precarious position. As a U.S. government marine biologist, she is fighting to save salmon threatened by the dams that supply Washington's hydroelectric power. But as a Chinook Indian, she finds herself torn between the colliding forces of technology and environmentalism. Crime

Greg Hurwitz

Minutes to burn

Through widening holes of ozone depletion, the tropical sun burns human skin to a crisp. Powerful earthquakes and monstrous hurricanes wrack South America. Cameron Kates, a hard hitting Navy SEAL hiding the secret of her early pregnancy, gets pulled begrudgingly into a mission. Thrillers

Alan Mills

City of animals

Nikiya Adams travels from England to Sydney to research the endangered species breeding programmes of the Royal Prince Albert Zoo. Arriving at the zoo she is plunged into a web of intrigue and mounting fear as Dr River's plans for modernising the zoo come under attack. Thrillers

Kate Mosse

Crucifix Lane

Briefly unconscious after a fall in London's